STRATCO HOSTS RIBBON CUTTING AT NEW WORLD HEADQUARTERS, WITH SCOTTSDALE MAYOR JIM LANE & INTERNATIONAL GUESTS

SCOTTSDALE, AZ -- STRATCO, Inc. celebrated its new world headquarters Open House with a special event that coincided with the Independent Lubricant Manufacturers Association (ILMA) Annual Meeting, Oct. 15-18, 2016. This event was highlighted by a ribbon cutting ceremony and champagne toast with Scottsdale Mayor, Jim Lane. The annual meeting is an international draw, and over 100 people attended the event at STRATCO in the Scottsdale Airpark district.

“As a supporter of ILMA and the National Lubricating Grease Institute (NLGI), I was thrilled to host this event and share our facility - including our new lab, featuring the Pilot Contactor™ Reactor - with other industry professionals,” said Diane Graham, STRATCO CEO. “We were happy to see our friends and colleagues enjoying themselves and our beautiful Arizona weather.”

STRATCO has been involved in NLGI since its inception in 1933, and the European Lubricating Grease Institute (ELGI) since its inception 25 years ago.

STRATCO’s new location provides a more functional space for its Pilot Plant that is used for Research & Development, as well as for laboratory services for Customers in the development of lubricating grease formulations and the investigating of new product lines. These new facilities will bring benefit to STRATCO’s Customers in the Lubricating Grease industry and other industries where reacting, mixing and blending technologies are needed.

Since 1928, STRATCO has been known for the supply of the highest quality equipment available, including the STRATCO® Contactor™ reactor and Skid Mounted Pilot Plants. STRATCO is now expanding and upgrading its Grease Kettle designs. STRATCO’s Customers are located in 63 countries on six continents.

Originally based in Kansas City, MO, STRATCO, Inc. is a privately-held firm headquartered in Scottsdale, AZ. The company provides engineering and equipment manufacturing solutions to customers worldwide in the lubricating grease, modified asphalt and petrochemical industries. STRATCO, Inc. is a member of the STRATCO GLOBAL family of companies, which includes ECOPATH™, formed in 2004 to provide technology solutions to the modified asphalt industries.
